Adelaide, South Australia

The World Amateur Team Championships

The World Amateur Team Championships is the pinnacle of the amateur game for the world's leading male and female golfers who compete respectively for the Eisenhower Trophy and Espirito Santo Trophy. In 2008 this event will be staged in South Australia from 4th October until 19th October at The Grange Golf Club and Royal Adelaide Golf Club.

This will mark the second occasion that Australia has hosted the World Amateur Team Championships and is also the 50th anniversary of the Eisenhower Trophy. The players represent the potential superstars of tomorrow as the past list of participants shows. The likes of Nancy Lopez, Jack Nicklaus, Karrie Webb, Sergio Garcia, David Duval, Aaron Baddeley, Annika Sorenstam and Tiger Woods have all enjoyed the honour of representing their country in the World Amateur Team Championships.

The Grange Golf Club

The Grange Golf Club prides itself on being one of Australia's premier sporting venues with two internationally rated 18 hole championship golf courses and a multi award winning function centre.

The Grange has become a standout layout not only in Adelaide but in Australia. The land is excellent; the routing is that of a first class course and it has that "intangible feel" of a wonderful place to play golf. The Grange Golf Club has played host to many national and international events with many champion golfers enjoying the challenge of The Grange.

GOLF CLUB

The Royal Adelaide Golf Club

This Seaton course, widely acknowledged as ranking with the best in Australia, is in Adelaide's western suburbs, less than 20 minutes drive from the city and less than two kilometres from the coast.

Despite many alterations made since the game was first played on it over a century ago, it retains its distinctive character of a comparatively open links course, an attribute by no means common in Australia. It is this character which members and visitors alike recognise as a priceless asset in a golf course situated so close to a major city.

Taken as a whole, the Seaton course, with its wide open spaces, poses more problems than appear at first sight, except under the most benign conditions. Most members are more than happy to complete their round having played to their handicaps.

This is Adelaide - a city where there's always something on

www.worldamateur2008.org

Adelaide's generous boulevards and elegant architecture provide the perfect backdrop for all sorts of activities. No matter what takes your interest, there's something that will pique your curiosity.

Whether you want to be entertained, get out and party, or just relax with the family, Adelaide has something for you.

For shopaholics, wander down Rundle Mall and indulge in some retail therapy. There's more than 800 shops to choose from, so you won't run out of options.

If you want to immerse yourself in South Australia's rich arts and culture, stroll along North Terrace - Adelaide's "cultural boulevard." It's home to the Aboriginal Cultures Gallery in the South Australian Museum, Adelaide Botanic Garden and the National Wine Centre. Just around the corner, wander through the fascinating National Aboriginal Cultural Institute - Tandanya.

If you're after a meal or a drink, there are more than 700 restaurants, cafes and pubs to choose from. So, sample the al fresco styles of East Rundle Street, try the seafood and Asian cuisine at Gouger Street, and treat yourself to some fine dining at the restaurants and cafes of North Adelaide.

Adelaide is known as the "twenty minute city" meaning it's easy to move from one location to another in minimal time. The city is blessed with easy accessibility - a compact cultural core, no traffic snarls and the hills and beaches are only a stone's throw away.

Just out of the city there is a huge range of regional experiences to enjoy - from pristine coastlines with great surf to romantic wine country, the majestic Murray River, and the Outback. It's easy to navigate your way around the State, with most regions just an hour or two's drive from Adelaide.
