

What Affiliation Fees do club golfers pay?

Affiliation fees are collected annually from each affiliated club and Golf SA provides member services to the club and its members. For equity, the amount collected from each club is based on the club's membership size and equates to its share of the total running costs of the organisation.

What does Golf SA do for golfers in return for affiliation fees?

Golf SA works with the key objective of promoting and encouraging the playing and enjoyment of golf.

For club golfers, affiliation fees paid to Golf SA means access to a wide range of services including the provision of an Golf Australia Handicap, eligibility to enter State Championship events and participate in talent development programs and coverage for personal and public liability insurances both at your home club and throughout Australia. In addition your club has access to numerous support services such as the Club Support Program rules and handicapping, competition management and water and industry research.

Why does Golf SA need to collect affiliation fees?

Golf SA needs income in order to function as the parent body for golf in South Australia. Clubs and club members should understand that their affiliation fee contribution represents an investment in the future of the game.

What Golf SA does for golfers?

For club golfers, paying Golf SA affiliation fees means you have access to the following services:

You have an official Australian Golf Handicap and are accepted into competitions inside and outside of your own club and worldwide

You are eligible to enter the numerous open events and State Championships conducted each year by Golf SA and other competitions sponsored or supported by Golf SA

You are eligible to participate in the wide range of coaching, clinics, talent development programs, squads, teams and special events conducted by Golf SA

Your club has the protection and opportunities, which flow from being part of a major Association that is well respected by government, media and business sectors

Your club has access to the legal, advisory and representation services provided by the organisation on a range of matters, which affect club financial security, environmental and statutory compliance, strategic planning, promotion and other issues.

You and your club has access to the golf services and resource materials provided by Golf SA for rules of golf training and accreditation, course rating, handicapping, amateur status, competition conditions, junior development, adjudication and dispute resolution.

You and your club are kept informed with news and information via the organisation's website and a range of newsletters, circulars and other distributions

Your club has access to support services such as water management, industry research, forums, conferences and communications.

What Golf SA does for Clubs?

Golf SA works with the key objective of promoting and encouraging the playing and enjoyment of golf. The organisation's role is to coordinate, communicate and advise rather than control the activities of affiliated clubs and District Golf Associations. Golf SA monitors a range of social, economic, environmental and political forces and issues that exist in our society, and acts to ensure that a favourable climate for golfers and golf clubs is maintained.

The following list provides a summary of just some of the benefits that affiliated clubs and courses obtain from Golf SA.

- > Australian Golf Handicap for members
- > Australian Course Rating
- > Golf Services
- > Junior Development
- > Golf Competitions
- > Industrial Relations, Legal and Other Services for Clubs
- > Club Representation
- > Communications
- > Insurance
- > Access to Government Grants

For Clubs:

Affiliation Fees are payable by each Golf SA Member - (Golf SA Constitution Rule 8) as at 1 January annually.

Definition:

'A golfer is defined as any individual member of any category of membership of an affiliated golf club that allows that member to play golf. An individual member under 18 years of age as at the stipulated date is deemed a junior golfer. Each golfer is required to pay such a levy or levies at each club that he or she is a member.'